Freedom of Information request: Right to know request

Thank you for your request for information about Mobile Coverage Checker data tables.

We received this request on 29 October 2025 and we have considered your request under the Freedom of Information Act 2000 ("the FOI Act").

Your request and our response

Please could you provide the data tables on which the Mobile Coverage Checker tool is based. The format of the checker tool, which only allows users to enter one postcode at a time, does not allow for different areas to be compared easily. I understand that there are certain caveats around data, but it is published in the checker format so I believe the underlying data tables should also be made available.

While we do hold information on data tables, this data is collected for the Connected Nations programme. We have permission to use this data for the purposes of our Connected Nations reports and to support our checker and API.

The checker and API have restrictions of use that prevent bulk download of this data as we do not have permission to release the data in bulk form. We consider that disclosure of this information is exempt under the FOI Act. In particular, section 44(1)(a) of the FOI Act exempts disclosure of information if its disclosure is prohibited under another enactment. Ofcom is prohibited under section 393(1) of the Communications Act 2003 ('the Communications Act') from disclosing information about a business which we have obtained in the course of exercising a power conferred by the Communications Act among others, unless we have the consent of that business or one of the statutory gateways under section 393(2) of the Communications Act is met, neither of which applies here. Section 44 of the FOI Act is an absolute exemption and therefore is not subject to a public interest test.

Yours sincerely,

Request an internal review

If you are unhappy with the response you have received to your request for information, or think that your request was refused without a reason valid under the law, you may ask for an internal review. If you do, it will be subject to an independent review within Ofcom. We will either uphold the original decision, or reverse or modify it.

If you would like to ask us to carry out an internal review, you should get in touch within two months of the date of this letter. There is no statutory deadline for us to complete our internal review, and the time it takes will depend on the complexity of the request. But we will try to complete the review within 20 working days (or no more than 40 working days in exceptional cases) and keep you informed of our progress. Please email the Information Requests team (information.requests@ofcom.org.uk) to request an internal review.

Taking it further

If you are unhappy with the outcome of our internal review, then you have the right to complain to the Information Commissioner's Office.
