Question 1: What are stakeholder views on how Ofcom should assess and measure BBC performance?	The BBC should be able to give independent news and be free to produce programs of a high quality and with entertainment value. It should be funded to achieve these objectives.
Question 2: Do you agree with the proposals for Public Purpose 1? If not, please explain why.	It is worrying that constraints are to be imposed on line. What news items are Ofcom worried about? Might not agree with the current right-wing government? Are we talking about censorship here? Who will the censors be? No I don't agree.
Question 3: Do you agree with the proposals for Public Purpose 2? If not, please explain why.	I do not agree. Transparency – really? Is this just more bureaucracy? Just wasting more of the licence payers money on something that is no output. Children's and adult education programs are excellent. Surely, input from schools would be more appropriate to guide content. The BBC has some truly inspirational staff who produce these programs. This part of their output is seriously undervalued and is a gem of the BBC output.
Question 4: Do you agree with the proposals for Public Purpose 3? If not, please explain why.	I do not agree. Do you really need to interfere? Constantly moving the goalposts is not helpful. Content needs to cover areas of interest for all the audience, they don't all want the same thing.
Question 5: Do you agree with our preliminary view on the BBC's request to change Operating Licence conditions 2.21 and 2.32 for BBC Four, including our proposal to remove BBC Four's peak original productions quota and set the 'all hours' quota at 65% instead of 60% as requested by the BBC? If not, please explain why.	The BBC are making these cuts because that half-wit Nardine Dorris has got it in for them. The Tories don't want an independent BBC, they want a news and entertainment service they can dictate to. What can the BBC do when they do not have enough funding? A very sad situation.

Question 6: Do you agree with the proposals for Public Purpose 4? If not, please explain why.

I do not agree.
This is just more tinkering. I think diversity on the BBC is pretty good and if you want more, there are other TV and Radio channels outside of this organisation. Ofcom has lost sight of the fact that there are many alternative sources of entertainment and news now. Young people do not watch the BBC; they get their news and entertainment on social media. Alternative news and TV media, on the internet and in print, have appeared to express the view of young people and those who feel they are not served by the controlled BBC.

Question 7: Taken together, do you agree with the proposals for a new Operating Licence? If not, please explain why.

No, I don't see the point of the changes. The BBC needs more funding and less interference.
