As a 40 + year veteran of the TV Aerial and Satellite Industry I agree with the CAI that this should be opposed. For over 90% of my customers and myself included, terrestrial broadcasting is the main source of Television Entertainment. Interference from other sources in my experience is constantly causing me signal problems to solve including from LED lamps, so please don't make matters worse by filling the only space we have left and leave that space for what it is used for, TV and Radio. Otherwise, I'll have an awful lot of explaining to do to my customers. I constantly have to explain why we have retune TVs on a regular basis anyway. So, adding more for them to understand is just going to make it less easy for them to understand any of this.
