Subject: UK telephone numbers

Hello Graham,

The UK phone number system is a mess. There are 3 main reasons for this:

1. You have the concept of 'area code', but use it for other things.
2. You don't have a standard structure and length for phone numbers.
3. You make people who call mobile numbers pay for the privilege, instead of the owners of the mobile phone.

You are a lost cause until you consider resolving these 3 issues properly. I'm really glad I don't live in the UK.

regards,

Alan Davies
